

WE ARE GEOGRAPHERS AT MONKWOOD!

Exciting News from Monkwood Primary School!

Today, we had an amazing time celebrating Geography as part of our Careers Month at Monkwood! We were lucky to meet the incredible estate agent, Linda Stringer, who shared valuable insights on why Geography plays a crucial role in her profession. Linda's visit was part of our Monkwood Pledges, where we strive to explore various careers and aspirations. Our dedicated students engaged in a thought-provoking discussion and took part in interactive activities that highlighted the importance of geography in Linda's line of work.

By understanding Geography, we discovered how it enables estate agents like Linda to analyse and assess the ideal locations for properties. They consider factors such as proximity to amenities, transportation links, and the surrounding environment. Geography helps them make informed decisions and provide exceptional services to their clients.

Our students were enthralled by Linda's expertise and passion for her profession. They learned about the significance of maps, spatial thinking, and the power of location-based knowledge in the world of real estate.

At Monkwood, we believe in fostering curiosity, exploration, and opening doors to endless possibilities. Engaging with professionals like Linda Stringer helps our students broaden their horizons and develop a deeper understanding of how different subjects connect with real-world careers.

A huge thank you to Linda for sharing her valuable insights and inspiring our students! We're grateful for your contribution to our Careers Month.

Stay tuned as we continue to explore exciting careers and aspirations during our Monkwood Pledges journey! Remember, the world is full of opportunities, and by understanding different paths, we can shape our own future.
